J.W. Denio The following article by J.W. Denio, was originally published in the 1989 San Antonio Light Magazine. Mascot Proposals Mascots are a very interesting topic. People need a figure to identify with and look up to. The person becomes not just a human being, but an entity to be recognized and respected. It seems to be a sense of recognition of one's self. It can be a representation of a corporate logo, it can even be just a character in a cartoon. For a football team, the mascot is its team identity. It is the face of the team and is as important as the football team's logo. It is to the team what the watermark is to the newspaper. Not all mascots are good. A very bad, even offensive mascot can be more detrimental than good for a sports team. And the opposite is true as well. The team can cause some serious damage if the mascot is offensive, even if he is very good. So, the question to be asked is, what kind of mascot should a football team have? In my opinion, the mascot should not be a person. It should be a creature. A creature that would be easy to paint and would not need to be changed often. A football team needs a mascot that will not frighten people or cause trouble. A mascot that is not intimidating but rather humorous, should be chosen. I think a good mascot would be a mythical creature. A creature that is a combination of the best aspects of man and beast. A creature that people can identify with and become close to. One of my favorite mascots for football is the panther. My reason is because, it is always cool to see a panther in the wild. I like the fact that a panther is not usually on the prowl. A panther is a creature that is calm and relaxed, even when it is attacking. A panther, like a football player, strikes when he is in the right
