What's New In Photoshop CS6?

Q: PHP OOP Self explaining cicle I'm trying to create a class that recieves an array as a parameter and then loop trough that array and submits each value as an object property. Why won't this work? Why do I need a self explaining method that loops trough each object and loops trough each array and inserts the data. Code: class Date_model { public $dates; function __construct() { $this->dates = array(); } function date_get($index) { for($i = 0; $i < count($dates); $i++) { $date = new Date($this->dates[$i]); if ($this->dates[$i] != $date) { $this->dates[$i] = $date; } } return $this->dates; } } $somedate = "01.11.2013"; $m_df = new Date_model($somedate); print_r($m_df->date_get(0)); A: Why don't you just do public $dates; function __construct() { for ($i = 0; $i < count($dates); $i++) { $date = new Date($this->dates[$i]); $this->dates[$i] = $date; } } and get rid of the for loop in the getter function? Q: jQuery trigger doesn't work for multiple divs I am trying to trigger an alert() every 4 seconds. I have multiple accordions, but for some reason only the first one shows the alert
