The watch has a PMOS backlit display with a resolution of 320Å .United Airlines is a notorious for its overbooking and if that's been your travel experience then you won't want to know what's in store for you once your flight is overbooked. It looks like this airline has taken it even further by offering a $1,000 USD reward to any customer willing to give up their seat. There are plenty of horror stories of people being hauled off of an overbooked flight and asked to give up their seat for the next. Once the incident is set in motion and the gate agent hands out a form, that individual is given $500 for their troubles and is offered a ticket for the next flight. United Airlines has begun handing out these forms and if they come across a passenger that accepts their offer, they will hand them $500 in cash and book them on the next flight. You could technically still back down once you are handed the form but that may just result in your name being cleared from the flight, something that shouldn't be the case. If you are interested in turning down the offer but want your name cleared, you can fill out the form with this information; your flight number, name, address, and dates of travel. The decision to turn down your flight and accept $1,000 is yours to make but this may not be the best idea. United Airlines has turned into a reputation among passengers and many are upset that they are being forced to give up a seat for the next passenger. Backtracking on this decision could result in you not getting a refund or even getting booked on a different flight.]} L. Angeleri [et al.]{}, Phys. Lett.
