My Windows 7 VM is trying to map a network share which exists on my Windows 8 host, but I'm not able to make this work at all. It looks like this directory exists on both hosts. Then it tries to create a new shortcut: It fails with error "Failed to mount a network resource. The server name could not be resolved, and the server cannot currently be reached." This is a problem for me because I'm hosting a TFS server on this system. I have tried adding

\\vmserver\c$\Program Files\Microsoft Visual Studio

12.0\Common7\IDE\CommonExtensions\Microsoft\TeamFoundation\Team Explorer\vssadmin.exe host vmserver to the Registry that was recommended in other posts on how to fix this, but it still fails. A: I thought it would be interesting to share how I solved this. I'm posting this because I can't make sense of the solution that I came up with myself, and I figured someone could make sense of it because I'm sure I've not missed a step. My solution was to manually edit the Registry on the server after stopping the TFS service in order to remove a key that was corrupt or wrong. Open the Registry editor Select the following Key

[HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SYSTEM\CurrentControlSet\Services\LanmanServer\Parameters]

Switch to the right branch of the tree

[HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SYSTEM\CurrentControlSet\Services c6a93da74d
