Client-server architecture often occurs in computer networks. The client operates as a user or application using resources provided by the server. During the communication session, the server receives requests from the client and provides responses, which may include the transfer of data, instructions, and/or some other information. In some implementations, the server can be implemented as a computer, such as a x86-based personal computer, whereas the client can be implemented as a mobile device, such as a hand-held computer, mobile phone, personal digital assistant, or the like. To implement a client-server architecture, typically a server network and a client network are utilized. The server network typically includes one or more server computers to provide resources to the client network. The client network typically includes a plurality of client computers. The network infrastructure of the server network and the client network may be a local area network (LAN), wide area network (WAN), Internet, or other type of network. XTOOLS AGP arcgis 2020.Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) said she is "not here to be the Speaker, I am here to be the speaker of the House," during her opening remarks Friday at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. As she accepted the speaker's gavel, Pelosi became the first woman to hold the position in a major party's presidential convention. Watch: Pelosi became speaker of the House on Jan. 3, 2007, following the resignation of her predecessor, former Rep. Dennis Hastert (R-Ill.), in the wake of allegations he sexually abused students at a nearby high school during the 1970s. However, Pelosi did not seek the position until January 2007, opting for an open House race instead, unseating Rep. Nancy Johnson (D-Calif.) in the process. Pelosi's victory over Johnson was secured in part by a vow to serve one term as speaker, keeping her off the ballot for House leadership posts in 2008. This, Republicans said at the time, was an attempt to "get her out of the way." "She was not elected to continue. She wasn't elected to this role. She was not elected to run for speaker. I think the voters in California sent a message last night by re-electing Nancy Pelosi to that office." Sen. John Cornyn (R-Texas) said at the time. "Frankly, I think she'll be challenged to continue her tenure." The challenge Pelosi received in 2008 was one-term maximum, and she was officially elected to the position for a second time with a margin of 290 votes.
