video. At the beginning of the 20th century, the British divided the Indian subcontinent into numerous small territories. One of these territories was the Punjab region that was situated between two important rivers on the Indian subcontinent: The Indus and the Sutlej Rivers. One of the regions in the Punjab, India was named after a wild herb called “Bhagat Singh,” a name which means “a flower that’s worth a million.” Bhagat Singh, who became a legendary freedom fighter in the 20th century, was born in the Punjab region in 1905. At the time, the British often oppressed the people of India, and many millions of Indians were suffering from hunger. In 1921, Bhagat Singh decided to put an end to this injustice by the British. So he and other revolutionaries decided to fight for the independence of their

To celebrate the birth anniversary of Bhagat Singh, this movie is based on the life story of Bhagat Singh..
