Chemsketch.Keratolytic glycolipid allergens of Anisakis simplex: identity and cross-reactivity with A. pegreffii and A. typica antigens. The allergens of Anisakis simplex (Ani s 1, s 2) are the major cause of fish-allergic patients in many countries. The fine specificity of IgE antibodies to A. simplex and the cross-reactivities with Ani s 1 of A. pegreffii and Ani s 2 of A. typica were determined by an immunoblotting assay. The IgE antibodies recognized proteins with a molecular mass of 38, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 55, 65 and 70 kDa. Very high levels of IgE antibodies and sensitization were found against all these allergens, showing high cross-reactivities between A. simplex, A. pegreffii and A. typica in the fish-allergic population of Venezuela. Moreover, the IgE antibodies were raised against three major allergens of this species (41, 55 and 70 kDa). The immunoblotting assay indicated that the 43, 42, 45, 44 and 55-kDa allergens are identified as A. pegreffii (Ani s 1) antigens and the 38, 40, 43, 44 and 70-kDa allergens as Ani s 2 antigens.
